

Game time

With football moving closer to the Super Bowl and basketball and hockey in full swing, sports fans are getting ready for a busy season. Here are some new products to add to the game day snack lineup.

Cider gets crafty

Craft beers are all the rage, but did you know there are craft ciders? Crispin Cider Company offers several GFCO-certified, natural hard apple craft ciders including Crispin Original, Crispin Brut and Honey Crisp.

All Crispin ciders are made with fresh pressed apple-juice that comes from West Coast apples, and, depending on the variety, also contain organic honey or organic maple syrup. The ciders are never made with apple juice concentrate or added malt, grape wine or spirit alcohol.

➔ crispincider.com

A new addition

Glutino just added a savory flavored pretzel to its product line with Honey Mustard Pretzels. Glutino's newest snack is in good company alongside existing Pretzel Sticks and Twists, Chocolate Covered Pretzels, Yogurt Covered Pretzels and Pretzel Chips.

➔ glutino.com

Bring on the flavor

Snyder's of Hanover is spicing things up. The company just introduced gluten-free Flavored Pretzel Sticks available in Hot Buffalo Wing and Honey Mustard & Onion. The pretzels are certified gluten free by the GFCO. Like Snyder's gluten-free Mini Pretzels and Pretzel Sticks, the Flavored Pretzel Sticks are also dairy, casein and egg free.

➔ snydersofhanover.com

friendly products

Tolerant

tolerant

panc entil
Rotini

Lunch time

Kids love lunch, especially when it comes in a box. Serve it up with contents that are a bit "outside" the box to get your kids' attention.

Lunch in style

AllerMates has come up with a smart, fun way to let teachers and classmates know that a child is gluten-free with its "I'm Wheat Gluten Free" Lunch Bag. The bag clearly notes that its owner wants "No 'G' for me" because he or she is "Gluten Free Yessiree!" These phrases and others are printed on the insulated bag to help kids let others know about their gluten-free needs in a safe and stylish way.

AllerMates also sells a gluten-free wristband that can be worn to remind adults that a child is gluten free. You'll also find stickers staying "Don't Eat Me, I'm Not Gluten Free" or "Proud to be ...Wheat & Gluten Free!" to help kids learn what they can and cannot eat.

➔ allermates.com

No spoon needed

No need to find a fridge or a spoon with Happy Family's Greek Yogurt, which comes in shelf-stable, squeezable pouches. Happy Squeeze Greek Yogurt combines yogurt with fruit and comes in Razzleberry, Super Strawberry and Peachy Keen. The USDA organic yogurt squeezes 30 percent of daily calcium and 20 percent of daily Vitamin D requirements into each BPA-less pouch.

➔ happfamilybrands.com

Can't forget the Motor City

Jessica's Natural Foods has combined the need to munch, crunch and have something sweet in her newest granola, Motor City Crunch. The granola was named to honor Detroit, which is not far from the company's headquarters and is nicknamed Motor City because it is the historic heart of the auto industry. Motor City Crunch combines certified gluten-free oats with chocolate chips, hazelnuts, coconut and ground flax seeds.

It is the company's sixth variety of granola, joining Gluten-Free Almond Cherry Granola, Gluten-Free Pecan Almond Granola, Gluten-Free Cherry & Berry Granola, Gluten-Free Vanilla Maple Granola and Gluten-Free Chocolate Chip Granola.

➔ jessicasnaturalfoods.com